She's still waiting by the lights
It's gonna be another long night
Hanging on a promise of old
Unaware of the lie she's been told
Oh girl, let it go

She waits to be taken away on the ride of her life
Cos no other man ever asked to make her his lawful wedded wife
Oh my friend, let it go

She's hanging on a love that could be
But never was and never will be
In her mind she makes a martyr of him
She gladly does time for another man's sin
Oh my friend, let it go

It breaks my heart to see you freezing half to death
But if I told you the truth would it breaks yours instead?
Oh my friend, let it go

And now she's been waiting til her body's stiff and tired
He must have been caught up in the traffic again tonight
She packs up all her things and shuffles home
Somewhere she can cry alone

Oh my friend, let it go
Don't you know he'll never show?
